

Sparrows

A tiny room, the ticking clock a fitful wind at the door;
celibate by circumstance
i pour the single cup.
Autumn's evening, the sparrows gather:
from here to her,
a hard flight